Re: Concote Relocation

To Our Valued Customers,

This letter is to notify you that Concote Corporation intends to relocate its Dallas facility effective February 1, 2010.

The new facility is approximately 18 miles northwest of our current location in Coppell, Texas. The City of Coppell is a suburb of Dallas close to the Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, allowing for more efficient transportation and logistics.

Concote's new plant will be approximately 144,000 square feet, which will allow for expansion of our operations. Concote's core operations will not change. All of our machinery and equipment, as well as our manufacturing, engineering and quality processes will remain the same. We are currently implementing a strategic plan to ensure a seamless transition of our operations to our new facility. This will include relocating in phases, building buffer inventories and working closely with our vendors to ensure that our raw material needs can be met. The move will not affect operations at our Tyler facility or our operations in Sealy, Texas or Monterrey, Mexico.
